

BELIEVE IT WAS BRUTALITY

Screams Cause the Neighbors to Gather About But Not to Interfere.

Residents of the Makiki district, not far from the Kaahumanu School are making a protest against what they say is the most inhuman exhibition of brutality by a son toward his mother. On three separate occasions the neighbors near a house in this district have been compelled to listen to the screams of the mother and to her pleadings for mercy, all tending to the common belief that the woman was being beaten by her son.

The first time the residents' attention was called to the matter was last week. During the evening they heard screams as if the woman was being subjected to punishment, followed by intervals when the woman made the most heart-rending appeals for mercy. Some of the men residing in the vicinity started for the house but refrained from entering the premises, thinking that they had no right to interfere in a domestic quarrel. A few days ago the screams and pleadings were again heard. On Wednesday evening shortly after 8 o'clock a series of cries and screams were heard. At times there were lulls in the sounds of distress, only to be again renewed. The neighbors who gathered near the house hoping to see some act of violence where by they would feel at liberty to interfere, heard the woman pleading with her son to desist from his blows. As the air was still, the cries could be heard a block away. Finally when the situation became so strained and the women residing near by were almost hysterical, the disturbance ceased.

Certain of the neighbors said yesterday that if the disturbance occurs again they will not hesitate an instant but send for the police.
